Our Mission

The San José Public Library Foundation provides advocacy, financial support, and leadership to our public libraries and educational programs throughout San José to create an educated, equitable, and engaged community.

In 2020, we had the joy of seeing wonderful instances of humanity throughout our community as many San José Public Library Foundation advocates, like you, came together to aid our most vulnerable neighbors. We are incredibly proud and grateful for your support of the Library as it responded to emerging needs through online programs, expansion of digital access, and continued education resources for students of all ages.

Even as the Library's budget decreased and their staff were redeployed for other urgent City concerns, SJPLF was able to increase our funding for Library programs, services, and resources. Your support helped narrow the gap so that, together, we could help residents stay informed about where to find help and apply for benefits, how to better use technology to stay connected, ways to supplement distance learning, and an escape into stories. This was on top of work to improve voter engagement and a full Census count, all while maintaining our values of equity, community, sustainability, and creativity.

The year 2020 marked several other firsts – we launched SJ Access to increase digital inclusion citywide by providing equipment and individual assistance to navigate the Internet at home; SJ Aspires enrolled the first two freshmen and sophomore high school classes to provide guidance and financial awards for college and career preparation; and we started our first permanent endowment, the Pat Dando Legacy Endowment Fund that will benefit children at the Almaden Branch Library.

This annual report is an opportunity to reflect upon all the good that you accomplished with your support of SJPLF in 2020. You are essential to the Library's continued well-being as we know the Library will be a vital resource enabling San José City to recover and thrive in the years to come. Your donations have served our residents well this year and make a brighter future possible. Thank you!

SJAccess

Building Digital Equity

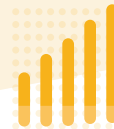

In the wake of COVID-19, the San José Public Library has adjusted its focus and pivoted to an increasingly online world. Simultaneously, SJPLF is working hard to ensure that social distancing does not exacerbate inequities in education or the local economy.

A key element of the Library's response to the pandemic is SJ Access, a City of San José initiative aimed at closing the digital divide in a time of distance learning and working from home. SJ Access provides residents and students with access to reliable internet service, free Wi-Fi, digital literacy programs, and more to help our city get connected.

Through special partnerships and SJPL's Wi-Fi Hotspot program, the City has enabled 12,800 student households to connect to distance learning programs — and 3,000 additional hotspots are now available for checkout at the Library.

Meanwhile, the Library's Maker[Space]Ship – a mobile maker lab — has embarked on a “tour” of San José neighborhoods, providing technology access, education, and information services to vulnerable populations of all ages in culturally-appropriate ways.

Additionally, thanks to a partnership with HP, Inc., SJPLF and the Library collected more than 500 laptops and other devices to be refreshed for students and families in need through a donation drive at Express Pickup locations.

Looking ahead to 2021, our libraries will be leveraged as Wi-Fi hubs as part of a program to expand digital access equitably throughout San José.

SJ Access is just one of the programs supported by your donations to the Library Foundation. You can read on to learn more about our impact over the past year or visit our website at sjplf.org.

SJ Aspires: Expanding Access to College

725 Students enrolled for 2020

$5,000
in micro-scholarships available per student

Only 30% of San José students complete a postsecondary program within 6 years of their high school graduation, and San José's public high school students receive an average of 12 minutes of college counseling over their entire four-year tenure.

Targeting youth in underserved neighborhoods, SJPLF partnered with San José Mayor Sam Liccardo and the San José Public Library to launch SJ Aspires. This innovative program enables students to chart a path to academic success by providing performance-based micro-scholarships as well as individual mentorship and counseling.

After a successful pilot in 2019 with 260 students, SJ Aspires was expanded in 2020 to a cohort of 725 students, including the entire W.C. Overfelt High School Class of 2024 and the sophomore class at San José High. A new website scheduled to launch in early 2021 will offer an interactive, gamified, portal for students to track their progress.

Thanks to generous support from our donors, we were also able to increase available micro-scholarships from $500 to $5,000 per student. To date, 59 SJ Aspires students have claimed more than $26,000 in scholarships awards, and all of them are enrolled in community or four-year colleges and universities.

“SJ Aspires really shows the City of San José embracing our students and their potential — and not just embracing them with words, but embracing them in a substantive way by providing funding to help them continue their education.”

“Now I can apply for a medical assistant position at a hospital versus a clinic to increase my annual salary. I also plan to pursue my education to become an LVN and hopefully an RN afterwards.”

Career Online High School

More than 17% of San José adults do not have a high school diploma, which is a significant barrier to advancement in a job or career, earning power, and achieving a higher education.

To address this need, SJPLF partners with the California State Library to fund Career Online High School (COHS). COHS gives adults the opportunity to earn an accredited high school diploma and a career certificate on their own schedule and anywhere that internet access is available.

In 2020, San José Public Library’s COHS awarded 32 diplomas and has now graduated 107 adult learners since launching in 2016. With a 75% completion rate, it is the highest-rated Career Online High School Program in the country.

Pat Dando Legacy Endowment Fund

Pat Dando (1946-2017) served on the San José City Council for ten years, including a term as Vice Mayor, where she was a fierce and fearless advocate for the San José Public Library.

After her passing, Pat's friends, family, and colleagues formed the Pat Dando Legacy Endowment Fund to memorialize Pat's love of children and education.

SJPLF is proud to be the home for this endowment, which will support children's programs, resources, and materials at the Almaden Branch Library.

You can learn more on our website at sjplf.org/pat-dando-endowment

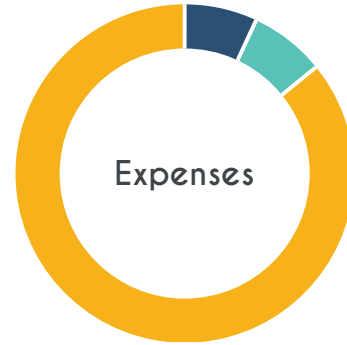

For more information about joining the SJPLF Legacy Society or creating an endowment to support the San José Public Library, please contact Development Director Nicole Chitty at nicole.chitty@sjplf.org.
